Washington Memo

From the Tribune's Washington Bureau

Dissent: Allen Dulles, who was chief of the Central Intelligence Agency for more than a decade, strongly disapproved of the recent press conference the CIA held to publicize its new estimates of Russia's economic strength. An intelligence agency, in Dulles' expert opinion, needs all the secrecy it can get, and press conferences and secrecy do not go together.

KNOWING THE ENEMY

Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, who knows the Communist threat as well as any man, has urged that the hard facts about the Red program be taught to American school children. He is right. We must know the enemy if we are not to succumb to him.
